FROM GRAFTING HEADQUARTERS.

THE Los Angeles Times scornfully advises tourists to come to Nevada instead of visiting the ruins of Thebes and Pompeii. "Why cross stormy seas," that paper inquires, "to view ruined cities, when Nevada has setting for such scenes as grandly desolate as any in the Sahara, and modern, up-to-date deserted cities more full of human interest than fabled Thebes or legendary Carthage? Why not stay in America and go into raptures of enthusiasm over ruins, ye who delight in such pursuits?"

This is base ingratitude for the wealth that poured into southern California from southern Nevada in the last ten years. Had it not been for the development of this section Los Angeles would be mourning a score of fine buildings, a couple of banks and numerous palatial homes that were created by the mines of Tonopah, Rhyolite and Goldfield. Notwithstanding this fling at the ruins of Nevada, it is well to inquire why the real estate wildcaters of Los Angeles waste their time exploiting this territory, which has more money per capita than any part of California. When the orange crop of California failed and the loss of $50,000,000 brought Los Angeles business men to the verge of panic, the newspapers of Nevada refrained from invidious comment, and when the bankers of that city were holding midnight sessions last year and trembling over their deposits, the newspapers of Nevada lent their columns to statements that would help restore confidence.

What return have the people of Nevada received from their generous treatment of the neighboring state? They have been exploited by adventurers from that commonwealth who preyed on them like a lot of insatiable vampires trying to glut their appetites with the money wrung from the mines of southern Nevada. Tonopah has been victimized by the harpies which the Los Angeles Times has nursed and that paper has received its share of the plunder. The advertising columns of the Times is filled with all sorts of unscrupulous real estate advertising, including the $30,000,000 investment company which promised dividends at the rate of 18 per cent a year, and thus beguiled investors to the point where they dropped their savings. This is not the only one. The records of the courts show that companies holding nothing better than rocky lands standing on edge remote from civic centers were unloaded on the unwary by companies advertising in the Los Angeles newspapers. The sucker list of the land sharks of southern California includes the names of thousands of Nevada men and women who have the reputation of always meeting their obligations. Nevada has never received a dollar from Los Angeles, as the penurious habits of the people of that city render them immune to the hazards of investment. No mining man of experience would ever think of soliciting the support of a man from Los Angeles, as the latter always wants to see the double eagles piled up and counted before he would buy the lot at a marked down sale at 50 cents on the dollar.

The ruins of Nevada that are derided by the Times are monuments to the prowess of the prospector, who pays his bills and pays on the spot for whatever he consumes. He does not beg for a living nor hold out the hat like so many mendicants who haunt the streets of the southern metropolis, but pays as he goes. The ruins spoken of so lightly represent the money of these men, and not the money of real estate speculators. The money came from the mines and went into material improvement, reflecting the optimism that is the life of the mining industry. When Los Angeles seeks to hold Nevada up to ridicule she should clean her own back yard of the hundreds of embezzling companies that have thrived in that town for the last twenty years. Morally Los Angeles is putrid with sins that shame the records of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Four years ago the Democratic press was having a lot of fun at the expense of their political adversaries over the billion-dollar congress. From advance reports it appears that the Wilson administration will not be satisfied with less than 50 per cent advance on that royal figure.

This is the time when all good men come to the aid of their county by paying taxes. Don't let Monday escape your attention. That is the last day to pungle up, and it is also the day when

Christmas Cheer--All the Year

There are 365 happy days in the year for the possessor of a camera. Photography is instructive and enjoyable. It educates the eye, trains the hand and elevates the mind.

If there are children in your home give them a camera for Christmas. Nothing could be more appropriate and nothing would be more welcome.

A Camera Pleases at Once and the Pleasure Grows

The young folks will get more pleasure from picture taking than they could from any other source. In the spring and summer they will get renewed pleasure from it and will cause them to become lovers of nature.

A camera for the boy or girl is an ideal gift. We have a nice assortment of Kodaks, ranging in price from $1.00 to $65.00.

WOMAN DONS SILK GOWN, THEN TAKES POISON

TRUCKEE, Nov. 28.—Helen Meyers died here this morning as a result of taking poison yesterday afternoon. Before she was taken ill the woman discarded her house clothes and donned a silk gown. Other finery was placed at the side of her bed.

If it's of exceptional value at the price, it's sure to be advertised in the Bonanza, else the merchant would be hopelessly unprogressive.
